Judgement and approach

- critically discuss and value teaching and education within the specific discipline domain underpinned by science and proven experience

Course content

The overarching aim of the course is to develop knowledge and competence to analyse, plan, discuss, and develop university education and the own pedagogical approach, based on science and proven experience. Conditions, outcomes, content, teaching, assessment, examination, together with implications of different teaching approaches, are among aspects being addressed. These aspects are examined from different perspectives and the relationships between them are discussed in relation to constructive alignment. Particular attention is devoted to the course syllabus as a legal as well as pedagogical document.

Form of teaching

Teaching is based on collegial dialogue in a variety of teaching formats, such as lectures, workshops, discussions, and seminars.

Language of instruction: Swedish and English

Assessment

The course is assessed through a written assignment and a seminar.

If a participant, who has failed the same examined component twice, wishes to change examiner before the next examination, a written application shall be sent to the department responsible for the course and shall be granted unless there are special reasons to the contrary (Chapter 6, Section 22 of Higher Education Ordinance).

Grades

The grading scale comprises: Pass (G) and Fail (U).

For a Pass the student is required to adopt a reflective approach to the demonstration of the attainment of course learning outcomes in assessed work.

Course evaluation

Course evaluation takes place in partnership with course participants both during and at the end of the course. This continuous dialogue informs the way the current course is carried out. The final summative evaluation includes the perspectives of both course participants and teachers. These will be published in a report on the course which will be uploaded to the virtual learning environment. The conclusions of the evaluation will guide the planning of subsequent courses.

The results of the course evaluation and possible changes to the course will be shared with course participants who participated in the evaluation and course participants who are starting the course.

Additional information

The course is for teachers and doctoral students at the university. The course is one of three on teaching and learning in higher education leading to the required qualifications for teaching staff at the University of Gothenburg. The recommended study path implies that the course HPE101, Teaching and Learning in Higher Education 1, Basic Course, 5 hec, should be taken as the first course, HPE102, Teaching and Learning in Higher Education 2, Discipline specific pedagogic, 5 hec as the second course and HPE103, Teaching and Learning in Higher Education 3, Applied analysis, 5 hec as the third course.

A virtual learning environment is used for communication between teachers and course participants and between course participants. Access to a computer and the Internet is therefore required. GU-card/Library card is needed for access to the course literature.
