Learning outcomes

On completion of the course, students are expected to be able to:

Knowledge and understanding

- apply the different tools of classical philology;
- show an advanced knowledge of theory and methodology within the subject field;
- actively follow the development and research in the subject field;

Skills and abilities

- demonstrate an independent ability to use the acquired knowledge and linguistic skills in critical analyses, interpretations and processing of phenomena and issues in the subject field;
- show advanced subject-specific information competence, i.e. ability to search, find, critically review and creatively utilise information;
- demonstrate a highly independent ability to delimit, write and carry out a research-related independent project within a given time frame, and then apply adequate qualitative and quantitative methods in the subject field by independently writing and defending an academic paper that contributes to developing new knowledge in one of the research fields of philology;
- demonstrate an independent ability to critically discuss an academic essay and place other students' works in a further theoretical perspective, as well as actively contribute to the work within the scope of a Latin seminar;
- demonstrate an independent ability to present an overview of current knowledge, the current state of research in the field, and a project of his or her own in dialogue both with scholars in the academy and with non-specialists outside the academy
- show such ability that is required to actively participate in research and development in the subject;

Judgement and approach

- demonstrate the ability to critically evaluate different theories and methods in relation to the specific sources and phenomena of the subject;
- demonstrate the ability to critically discuss and evaluate a scholarly produced text;
- demonstrate the ability to analyse and reflect on his or her own learning.

Course content

The course consists in writing an independent and critical scholarly work. The subject and literature for the thesis are chosen in consultation with examiner and supervisor. The writing of the essay is linked to a seminar where the student, apart from presenting and defending his or her own thesis, also independently reviews another student's thesis. The student should be active in the seminars and show an awareness of academic methodology and modes of expression.

Form of teaching

Language of instruction: Swedish

Assessment

Assessment should be based on the individual performance of each student. The forms of assessment should be based on the content and the set-up of the course module. Different examination forms may apply. For more specific assessment criteria, see the department's style sheet for the assessment of theses. This is made available to the students at the beginning of the course.

A student who has failed a course item is eligible for a retake exam/assignment. In connection with written assignments, supplementary assignments may be offered in order for the student to achieve a Pass grade. Such a supplementary assignment should be done within the stipulated time (normally five working days after the result has been posted). Otherwise a Fail grade will be reported.

A student who has completed an exam/assignment with a passing grade is not eligible for a retake for the purpose of receiving a higher grade. Nor may a student withdraw a test/assignment once it has been submitted for the purpose of avoiding receiving a grade for the work.

If a student, who has been failed twice on the same course component being examined, wishes to change examiner before the next examination, a written application shall be sent to the department responsible for the course, and shall be granted, unless there are special reasons to the contrary (Chapter 6, Section 22, Higher Education Ordinance).

If a student has received a recommendation from the University of Gothenburg regarding study support for students with disabilities, the examiner may decide, in the case where this is compatible with the learning outcomes for the course, and provided no unreasonable resources are required, to give the student an adjusted examination or an alternative form of examination.

In case the course has been discontinued or undergone any larger changes the student is guaranteed access to at least three additional examination sessions (including regular examination sessions) within the time of at least one year. The same applies to placements and professional placements (VFU), although this is restricted to just one additional examination session.

Grades

The grading scale comprises: Pass with Distinction (VG), Pass (G) and Fail (U).

Course evaluation

The students are given the opportunity to make a written evaluation of the course. The results of the evaluation are published digitally.

Additional information

Equality aspects should be taken into consideration in content, literature, teaching and evaluation.
